Unit: Persuasive Writing
Grade: 10

Stage 1: Desired Results

Understandings

Students will understand that...

- Persuasive writing is relevant to their lives outside of the academic setting.
- In order to persuade effectively, students must learn to consider and evaluate both sides of an issue.
- A convincing argument includes a focused claim with supporting examples and evidence.
- Persuasive writers use a combination of appeals--pathos, ethos, and logos--to convince their audience.

Essential Questions

- How can persuasive writing or speaking be used as a means for social change?
- Why is it important to learn about persuasive techniques that others (authors, celebrities, politicians, the media, etc.) use to convince you to believe in an idea?

Vocabulary:
- Thesis/Claim
- Pathos, Ethos, Logos
- Appeals
- Audience
- Introduction, Body, Conclusion
- SOAPStone (Speaker, Occasion, Audience, Purpose, Subject, Tone)

Skills:
- Evaluate persuasive techniques, such as pathos, ethos, and logos, used in advertisements and written works
- Write an introduction for an essay that includes a “hook” or attention grabber
- Write a persuasive thesis statement
- Support their argument with relevant examples
- Write a conclusion that leaves the reader with a thought-provoking statement or a call to action.

Intro to Persuasive Writing: Week 1 Sequence

Questions in Focus for Week 1:

What is Persuasion? What is pathos, ethos, logos?
Monday/Tuesday:

1) Opener: Begin the unit with a silent, individual quick-write based on this writing prompt:

   Describe a time when you persuaded someone to do something and it actually worked. How did you make this person believe you? What strategies or techniques did you use?

2) Students will then participate in a think-pair-share to discuss their response to the quick-write.

3) Class Discussion: Have students share with the class what they wrote and what they discussed in their think-pair-share. Have a student write down key words on the board based on the discussion. (You might get words like—bribery, emotion, repetition, persistence, etc).

4) Explain to students that they will be writing a persuasive essay on a topic of their choice. Explain the importance of persuasion in society, and how it is all around them—billboards, magazines, commercials, etc. Here is a video that introduces Persuasive Writing that will further spark students’ interests: http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jaGJNxCxB-s

5) Introduce Pathos, Ethos, and Logos as students fill out the graphic organizer. Include pictures of current advertisements so that students can relate. For HW, students will observe advertisements that they see on TV, magazines, etc. and fill out the rest of the graphic organizer. Exit Ticket for the day: In your own words, define pathos, ethos, and logos using complete sentences.

Wednesday/Thursday:

1) Opener: Convince your parents to let you stay out past your curfew using pathos, ethos, or logos. Have students share out.

2) Check for Understanding: Group students into 3 or 4. Pass out various advertisements (examples below). Paste advertisements onto a poster and identify the appeals used in advertisement (pathos, ethos, logos).
Why love one but eat the other?

✓ Pigs by nature are every bit as loving, sensitive, and full of personality as the animals we call "family".
✓ Pigs dream, recognize their names, and are gregarious and affectionate beings who form loyal bonds with each other and other species, including humans.
✓ The curious and insightful pig is the smartest domestic animal in the world, with intelligence beyond that of 3-year-old human children.
✓ In their natural setting, pigs spend hours playing, mother pigs sing to their piglets while nursing, and groups of pigs enjoy lying close together in the sun.

GLOBAL WARMING IS LEAVING MANY HOMELESS

3) More check for understanding: Show commercials and movie clips. For each clip, have students write down which appeals are used, and why these appeals are effective. Use graphic organizer below.

Friday:

1) “Convince me on the Spot”: Gather random objects from around the classroom, such as a stapler, pen, eraser, marker, crayon, scissors, etc. Assign each group an object. Give students 5 minutes to come up with a commercial/ad/speech that convinces me to buy their product using pathos, ethos, logos. Students will vote on who presented the best argument.

2) Exit ticket: 3 things I learned, 2 questions I still have, 1 opinion I now have.

Possible advertisement project & Presentations?

Week 2 Sequence:

Students will complete a group advertisement project and present it to the class. See instructions below.

Group Project: Persuasive Advertisements

Instructions:

1) As a group, decide on a topic and what you will argue about that topic.
2) Decide the medium in which you will present your argument. Choose among the following:
   - Commercial—Video
     - 2 minutes in length
     - Every group member must speak
   - Poster Board
     - Must include a slogan and a visual
     - Must be visually appealing
   - Magazine ad
     - Must include a slogan and a visual
     - Must be done in Word, or on another computer program
     - Visually appealing
   - Speech
     - Every group member must speak
     - Speech should last 2 minutes long
3) Decide how you will convey the argument. You must use pathos, ethos, or logos, or a combination of the three.
4) Start designing your masterpiece!
Week 3 Sequence: Evaluating Persuasive Writing & SOAPStone

Questions in Focus for Week 2:
How do writers persuade? What is SOAPStone? Why is persuasive writing important? How can persuasive writing change society?

Monday/Tuesday:
1) Opener: What is the best speech you have ever heard? Why?
2) Introduce SOAPStone and tone words list. See graphic organizer below.
3) Model how to annotate “I Have a Dream” by Martin Luther King using SOAPStone, and also identify pathos, ethos, and logos.
4) Exit Ticket—What does the acronym SOAPStone stand for?

From
Wednesday/Thursday:

1) Annotation Stations—students will read and annotate (SOAPStone, pathos, ethos, logos) a persuasive speech at each station. Possible speeches to include:
   - JFK Inauguration Speech
   - Barack Obama Inauguration Speech
   - Steve Jobs: Stanford Commencement Speech
   - John Green, Butler University Commencement Speech
   - Duncan’s Bar Mitzvah Pro Gay Marriage Speech
   - Lia Mills: Anti-Abortion Speech

2) After stations are complete, conduct a class discussion on the effectiveness of the speeches. What did they have in common? How were they different? Why are these speeches important? How have they changed/not changed your views? Why might learning how to persuade be an effective tool?

Friday:

1) Individual Practice with annotating persuasive writing: Using iPADS, students will read, annotate, and reflect on a current event article of their choice that is persuasive in nature. Students will be directed to newsela.com to find these articles. To annotate, students can fill out the SOAPStone chart as they read from the iPAD. For students who need more support with writing/reading … they can use this chart from AVID (on page below) to complete as they read.

Week 4 & 5 Sequence: Persuasive Writing

Questions in focus: How do we organize a persuasive essay? What is a thesis statement? How do I support my argument?

Weeks 3-4 will be focused on writing a STAAR-Style persuasive essay given a list of topics from which students will choose. These topics will be related to issues that are found on their home campus. Because the STAAR test does not allow students conduct research before writing, students will be encouraged to develop their own ideas to support their argument without research for this particular essay. Before writing on their own, however, the class will review the basics of persuasive essay writing.

Week 4 & 5:
Monday/Tuesday
1) Go over the STAAR Persuasive Essay format using a test from the previous year.
2) Begin with thesis statements. Use the thesis generator handout (next page) to explain how to write a thesis.
3) Exit Ticket: What is a thesis statement? In which part of the essay is a thesis placed? Why is a thesis important?

Wednesday/Thursday
1) Opener: Write a thesis statement that argues for or against wearing school uniforms.
2) Review structure of essay—intro, body paragraphs, and conclusion. Take a prompt from the thesis generator handout and as a class, brainstorm and complete a graphic organizer together, focusing on organization of a persuasive essay.

Friday: Begin individual writing of STAAR Style Essay.

Persuasive Essay Instructions

Directions: Choose one prompt from the list below to develop a 26-line STAAR style persuasive essay. Read the options below, and circle which one you will answer. You will brainstorm and pre-write using the graphic organizers attached to this page. After revising & editing, your final draft will be written on the 26-line template.

Prompt 1: Write an essay that states your position on whether or not students should be allowed to eat lunch off-campus.

Prompt 2: Write an essay that states your position on whether or not cell phones should be allowed on campus.

Prompt 3: Write an essay that states your position on whether or not students should be required to wear school uniforms.

Hand out graphic organizer #1 and #2 for students to use to brainstorm and pre-write.
Editing

Directions: Go through each step and edit your paper carefully. As I grade your essay, I will be looking to see that you correct errors such as the ones listed below.

1) Highlight all “to be” verbs (is, am, are, were, was, being, been, become, feels, seems). Change at least HALF of these verbs to stronger, more effective verbs. Refer to the list of strong verbs (on page 3) if you need help.

2) Highlight all past tense verbs and change them to present tense.

3) Find where you use “you” in your essay. Delete it. You should be writing in third person point of view (he, she, it).

4) Search for contractions in your essay (isn’t, don’t, wouldn’t, couldn’t, etc). Change them to could not, would not, is not).

6) Send these phrases to the GRAVEYARD:
   - I think…
   - I believe…
   - In my opinion…
   - Personally…
   - That’s all I have to say.
   - That’s it.
   - I say this because…
7. Do your body paragraphs begin with an effective transition? If not, add some. Here is a list of some transitions you could use:

also, in addition, again, once again, further, furthermore, moreover, then, besides, equally important, finally, next, last, what’s more, similarly, likewise, not only….

Be

endure, survive, exist, last, live, persist, prevail, abide, arise, contribute

Have

carry, bear, possess, hold, keep, retain, regard, include, use, require, receive, accept, exhibit, show, exercise, experience, submitted to, allow, trick, fooled, undergoing, compel, obligre, require, mandate carry out, put, perform, execute, commit, bring about, effect, finish, exert, exhaust, produce, mimic, manage,

Do

Will

desire, wish, disposition, inclination, determination, request, command, volition, employ, means, order

Must

requirement, essential, signify, happen

Would

wish, desired, want, occur, appear, look, constitute, make, equal

Not

fail, inability, lack, dearth, without, absence, void, null, vacuum

English II Persuasive Essays

1) Read the introduction.
   a. Explain how the hook of this essay is effective. If it is not effective, how could it be improved?

   b. Write the author’s thesis and two reasons here:

2) Read the first body paragraph.
   a. Does the first body paragraph discuss reason #1 in support of the thesis? ______
   b. Explain how the author is effective (or not) in proving reason #1.

3) Read the second body paragraph.
   a. Does the second body paragraph discuss reason #2 in support of the thesis? ______

   b. Explain how the author is effective (or not effective) in proving reason #2.

4) Read the conclusion.
   a. Explain how the conclusion is effective—does it include a call to action or a thought-provoking statement?
Rubric

STAAR English II Persuasive Writing

Score Point 1

The essay represents a very limited writing performance.

Organization/Progression

• The organizing structure of the essay is inappropriate to the purpose or the specific demands of the prompt. The writer uses organizational strategies that are only marginally suited to the persuasive task, or they are inappropriate or not evident at all. The absence of a functional organizational structure causes the essay to lack clarity and direction. Most ideas are generally related to the issue specified in the prompt, but the writer’s position is missing, unclear, or illogical. The writer may fail to maintain focus on the issue, may include extraneous information, or may shift abruptly from idea to idea, weakening the coherence of the essay.

• The writer’s progression of ideas is weak. Repetition or wordiness sometimes causes serious disruptions in the flow of the essay. At other times the lack of transitions and sentence-to-sentence connections causes the writer to present ideas in a random or illogical way, making one or more parts of the essay unclear or difficult to follow.

Development of Ideas

• The development of ideas is weak. The argument is ineffective and unconvincing because the reasons and evidence the writer uses to support the position are inappropriate, vague, or insufficient. The essay is insubstantial because the writer’s response to the prompt is vague or confused. In some cases, the essay as a whole is only weakly linked to the prompt. In other cases, the writer develops the essay in a manner that demonstrates a lack of understanding of the persuasive writing task.

Use of Language/Conventions

• The writer’s word choice may be vague or limited. It reflects little or no awareness of the persuasive purpose and does not establish a tone appropriate to the task. Word choice may impede the quality and clarity of the essay. Sentences are simplistic, awkward, or uncontrolled, significantly limiting the effectiveness of the essay.

• The writer has little or no command of sentence boundaries and spelling, capitalization, punctuation, grammar, and usage conventions. Serious and persistent errors create disruptions in the fluency of the writing and sometimes interfere with meaning.
Score Point 2

The essay represents a basic writing performance.

Organization/Progression

- The organizing structure of the essay is evident but may not always be appropriate to the purpose or the specific demands of the prompt. The essay is not always clear because the writer uses organizational strategies that are only somewhat suited to the persuasive task. Most ideas are generally related to the issue specified in the prompt, but the writer’s position is weak or somewhat unclear. The lack of a clear, effective position or the writer’s inclusion of irrelevant information interferes with the focus and coherence of the essay.

- The writer’s progression of ideas is not always logical and controlled. Sometimes repetition or wordiness causes minor disruptions in the flow of the essay. At other times transitions and sentence-to-sentence connections are too perfunctory or weak to support the flow of the essay or show the relationships among ideas.

Development of Ideas

- The development of ideas is minimal. The argument is superficial and largely unconvincing because the reasons and evidence the writer uses to support the position are not always appropriate or are too briefly or partially presented. The essay reflects little or no thoughtfulness. The writer’s response to the prompt is sometimes formulaic. The writer develops the essay in a manner that demonstrates only a limited understanding of the persuasive writing task.

Use of Language/Conventions

- The writer’s word choice may be general or imprecise. It reflects a basic awareness of the persuasive purpose but does little to establish a tone appropriate to the task. Word choice may not contribute to the quality and clarity of the essay. Sentences are awkward or only somewhat controlled, weakening the effectiveness of the essay.

- The writer demonstrates a partial command of sentence boundaries and spelling, capitalization, punctuation, grammar, and usage conventions. Some distracting errors may be evident, at times creating minor disruptions in the fluency or meaning of the writing.

Texas Education Agency
Score Point 3: The essay represents a satisfactory writing performance.

Organization/Progression

- The organizing structure of the essay is, for the most part, appropriate to the purpose and responsive to the specific demands of the prompt. The essay is clear because the writer uses organizational strategies that are adequately suited to the persuasive task. The writer establishes a clear position. Most ideas are related to the position and are focused on the issue specified in the prompt. The essay is coherent, though it may not always be unified due to minor lapses in focus.

- The writer’s progression of ideas is generally logical and controlled. For the most part, transitions are meaningful, and sentence-to-sentence connections are sufficient to support the flow of the essay and show the relationships among ideas.

Development of Ideas

- The development of ideas is sufficient. The argument is largely convincing because the reasons and evidence the writer uses to support the position are specific and appropriate. The essay reflects some thoughtfulness. The writer’s response to the prompt is original rather than formulaic. The writer develops the essay in a manner that demonstrates a good understanding of the persuasive writing task.

Use of Language/Conventions

- The writer’s word choice is, for the most part, clear and specific. It reflects an awareness of the persuasive purpose and establishes a tone appropriate to the task. Word choice usually contributes to the quality and clarity of the essay. Sentences are reasonably varied and adequately controlled, contributing for the most part to the effectiveness of the essay.

- The writer demonstrates an adequate command of sentence boundaries and spelling, capitalization, punctuation, grammar, and usage conventions. Although some errors may be evident, they create few (if any) disruptions in the fluency of the writing, and they do not affect the clarity of the essay.
Score Point 4

The essay represents an accomplished writing performance.

Organization/Progression

- The organizing structure of the essay is clearly appropriate to the purpose and responsive to the specific demands of the prompt. The essay is skillfully crafted because the writer uses organizational strategies that are particularly well suited to the persuasive task. The writer establishes a clear position. All ideas are strongly related to the position and are focused on the issue specified in the prompt. By sustaining this focus, the writer is able to create an essay that is unified and coherent.

- The writer’s progression of ideas is logical and well controlled. Meaningful transitions and strong sentence-to-sentence connections enhance the flow of the essay by clearly showing the relationships among ideas, making the writer’s train of thought easy to follow.

Development of Ideas

- The development of ideas is highly effective. The argument is forceful and convincing because the reasons and evidence the writer uses to support the position are specific and well chosen. The essay is thoughtful and engaging. The writer may choose to recognize the complexities of the issue, consider opposing or alternate points of view, use his/her unique experiences or view of the world as a basis for writing, or connect ideas in interesting ways. The writer develops the essay in a manner that demonstrates a thorough understanding of the persuasive writing task.

Use of Language/Conventions

- The writer’s word choice is purposeful and precise. It reflects a keen awareness of the persuasive purpose and maintains a tone appropriate to the task. Word choice strongly contributes to the quality and clarity of the essay. Sentences are purposeful, varied, and well controlled, enhancing the effectiveness of the essay.

- The writer demonstrates a consistent command of sentence boundaries and spelling, capitalization, punctuation, grammar, and usage conventions. Although minor errors may be evident, they do not detract from the fluency of the writing or the clarity of the essay. The overall strength of the conventions contributes to the effectiveness of the essay.
